Airport to gain more places to eat, drink

COLUMBUS — Several new restaurants will soon greet those who haven't traveled through John Glenn Columbus International Airport recently.

Franklinton-based Land-Grant Brewing Co. opened a location in Concourse B late last year. Another brewpub announced last year, American Craft Tavern, is expected to open in Concourse C by July.

Columbus-based Donatos, which opened its first airport location in Columbus three years ago, will open a second location in Concourse C later this year. Featuring a full bar, it will replace Johnny Rockets in that space.
