

The Columbus Regional Airport Authority manages energy and environmental resources associated with development and daily aviation activities at John Glenn Columbus International, Rickenbacker International and Bolton Field airports. Because our airports are community assets valued by many stakeholders, we seek to promote environmentally, economically and socially responsible practices that meet the needs of today without compromising the needs of tomorrow.

Collaboration, energy performance, compliance and conservation are at the core of our strategic endeavors. We are committed to environmental responsibility and leadership consistent with our mission, core values and strategy. We commit to minimizing the impacts of our operations on the natural environment and surrounding communities by preventing pollution, reducing greenhouse gas emissions and continually improving our environmental programs.
